The M. C. Riley Alumni Association Copyright Statement

As part of our mission to research, document, compile and preserve the History of the Michael C. Riley Elementary and High School, through the donation of Photographs, Oral History Recordings and the collection of other Historical Artifacts. The Alumni Association will transfer these digital images and all other items that will be collected from former students or their families for preservation to the Gullah Museum of Hilton Head Island. The images in these digital and or print collections may not be copyrighted, due to the existence of creative property rights or other legal restrictions. Some items in the collection may have been loaned or donated by former students or their families to the Gullah Museum of Hilton Head. Therefore, the Museum may or may not own the copyright, other legal and or creative property rights associated with some of these items. The Gullah Museum have made a reasonable effort to identify the rights status of material in its collections and to obtain the necessary permission required to make these materials available for nonprofit, educational, research, and limited publicity use. Any further use of the images in the Museum's collection, such as publication in any print or online media, public broadcast or exhibition, commercial use, must comply with U.S. and international law, including the fair use of copyrighted material. The user of any image in the Museum's collection is solely responsible for determining any rights or restrictions associated with such use, obtaining permission from the rights holder when required, and paying fees when necessary for the proposed use.

Rights Information

The Gullah Museum of Hilton Head will share any rights information in its possession, but makes no warranties regarding this information. Please contact the Museum if you have any information regarding the rights holders to images in its collections so that accurate information can be provided. If you are a rights holder who does not wish an image in the collections to be displayed, please provide a written request to remove the image as required by the Digital Millennium Copyright Act.
